

Professor Sarah Metcalfe

School of Geography,
University of Nottingham,
Nottingham,
NG7 2RD,
UK

Tel: 44 (0)115 8467712

Email: sarah.metcalfe@nottingham.ac.uk

Sarah Metcalfe was an undergraduate at Cambridge and completed her DPhil at Oxford. She moved to Nottingham in 2003, where she is currently Head of School. Her research interests focus on reconstructing climate change and human-environment interactions, particularly in the tropical Americas, but with some interest in the Middle East. Current projects include millennial scale variability, high-resolution climate reconstructions and the integration of historical archives with lake sediment records.